Personality can be generated not only by good looks and not by good language command but by concentrating each aspect anyone can gain excellence. So, from this he says that personality cannot be built in a day. This process takes place over a period of time. One can develop his or her personality through simple techniques like believing in oneself, sense of dressing, time management, developing communication skills, presentation skills and making a positive attitude towards life. Some of the concepts comprehensive discussed were Building Blocks to Success, Developing a Pleasing Personality, Communication Skills, Etiquette and Manners, Presentation Skills, Group Discussion, Aptitude & Reasoning Test.
