As part of the event, inspectors and sub-inspectors from the Nashamukti Cell visited the campus to deliver talks on the severe hazards of addiction. They explained how substance abuse can devastate an individual's life, affecting not only their health but also their personal and social relationships. The officers stressed the importance of leading a healthy, addiction-free life and provided insights into the mental and physical consequences of drug and alcohol dependency.

The students listened attentively, absorbing the key points discussed. The interactive session aimed to instill a strong sense of awareness and responsibility among the youth. At the end of the seminar, everyone took an oath as part of the Nasha Mukht Bharat (Addiction-Free India) campaign, pledging to stay away from addiction and encourage others to do the same.

The session was impactful, providing students with valuable information and motivating them to contribute to an addiction-free society.
